

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

NEW HOMES FOR 55+ ADULTS
EARN AWARDS FOR TRADITIONS OF AMERICA
DURING 2010 HARRISBURG PARADE OF HOMES

(AGELESS DESIGNS CAPTURE THE ATTENTION OF RETIREES AND JUDGES)

Harrisburg, PA – October 6, 2010 – Traditions of America at Silver Spring, a 55+ retirement community, took home a baker's dozen of awards during the 2010 Parade of Homes program put on by The Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Harrisburg, PA. A multi-family home model and a single-family home at the Mechanicsburg community were recognized as the finest new homes in the region.

The Hancock floor plan, a single family design with ageless features for 55+ homebuyers, earned six awards: SILVER in the Exterior, Interior, Kitchen, Landscaping and Decorating categories; and GOLD for the Master Bath/Suite.

The Hamilton floor plan, a multi-family home featuring a 2-story foyer and vaulted great room, earned six awards: all GOLD in the categories of Exterior, Interior, Kitchen, Master Bath/Suite, Landscaping and Decorating. In addition, the home was further honored with a Fulton Award.

From September 25 to October 3, thousands of Pennsylvanians visited the featured homes on the "Parade route." Organizers chose homes that feature fresh and innovative designs, showcased the latest trends and would inspire visitors. The two entries from Traditions of America at Silver Spring have proven they fit the bill. The models include features that are ideal for easy living.

For example, both the Hancock and Hamilton feature ageless touches such as lever-style door handles and rocker switches. The single-family homes are designed for easy, single-level living, with wider doorways and flexible layouts. There is space on the first or second floor for an office or grandkid bunkroom, depending on the wishes of the homeowner.
